Re: Out-of-state tip regarding power grid attacks

03/07/2023

Dear _____:

For about 18 months, I've been handing out my enclosed tri-fold on the danger of—and practical solutions for—a likely attack on the power grid (and the group that would be expected to be responsible).

It is quick and easy to verify this is a good lead. It might take longer to actually make arrests. It is very important that you don't merely turn this investigation over to federal law enforcement groups like the compromised FBI because that would be like “the fox watching the hen house.” If you already have turned it over to them, read on. I realize this letter is necessarily a bit long. You may wish to read the tri-fold first so that you know where I would point in terms of leads. You'll see right away that it's a difficult task you have ahead of you because the organizers have been good at covering their tracks.

While it may require considerable leg-work to follow this vein all the way to arrests, it is what you'll do if you care about the truth above taking the bait that will likely be presented to you very soon by others claiming to be independent and claiming to give an explanation that makes sense.

About 12 years ago, Dr. Robert Duncan PhD released a book, Project: Soul Catcher, Vol. II | Secrets of Cyber and Cybernetic Warfare Revealed, in which he made the following informative comments on this topic. I would consider these to be extremely accurate predictions:

...Psycho-Bombs can be turned into Manchurians or Programmed Assassins. They have many uses that are instrumental in social engineering and manipulation of government laws and media. So for example, if a social engineer wanted to make guns illegal, they could trigger many psycho-bombs at once using guns as their weapon. The public would react to the fear driven media stories to pass laws against guns. Psycho-bombs are also useful in other fear driven tactics to have the public give up their rights to privacy. Often they are used to distract the media's focus on more pertinent and important stories... [358]

A little later, he writes:

...Psycho-bombs can be used to manipulate the public in giving up their gun rights for example. Could they be used to scare and terrorize the public so that the public is willing to move towards a police state? ... [359]

Obviously, the “Psycho-bombs” he's referring to are human beings.

My day job is legal transcription for a court reporting company so I'm aware that, in some parts of the USA, maintaining impartiality to any political leaning while on the job is considered a virtuous practice within law enforcement. But that doesn't mean political motives of criminals should be ignored, that those motives cannot be a significant part of the basis for starting an investigation, that critical thinking skills should be thrown out the window by detectives or others, or that malicious groups can't possibly be well organized or have their hands in high government offices in our great country.

I can point to some groups and tell you what I observe that they are doing and show you that they are almost certainly responsible for the attacks in question in NC, OR, WA, etc. The tri-fold serves this purpose just fine.

It is clear that the people responsible for the great and coordinated (non-random) increase in mass shootings also are responsible for the similarly coordinated power plant attacks, of which there have reportedly been at least 106 during the first 8 months of 2022. [1]

The outstanding organization Jews for the Preservation of Firearms Ownership (JPFO) has published a remarkably simple one-page Genocide Chart [2] that can make the topic at hand very clear even for those who say they don't believe in guns. Gun control was a preferred tool of dictators that killed tens of millions in the 1900s. I've enclosed that chart for your benefit. It doesn't take 30 seconds of looking at it to know you're holding something good in your hands. And if anyone would know that gun control could be very bad for human health, it would be the religious Jews.

Now suppose for a moment that China and Russia possessed a little-known technology also held by U.S. government and by some gangs. This technology would almost untraceably facilitate the use of unwilling human beings as disposable “assets” in criminal acts like assassinations and other murders. Suppose that each nation had its own silent 'Cold War,' so to speak, decades ago to develop and perfect this technology in a race against each other “because if we don't, they [enemy nations] will.”

Now suppose you have already heard of this technology. You have heard of it already, because we have all heard of the Cuban diplomats/Havana Syndrome.

However, the story of the Cuban diplomats, as recounted in the legacy media—and in the 60 Minutes segment [3] on a person attacked in that manner at the White House—only mention the earliest, most outdated forms of this weapon from the days of the actual Cold War between USA and Russia that we know from history. As shown by the researchers mentioned here in this letter, the technology is very far advanced beyond the laughable, sugar-frosted cover story we heard from the legacy media, a story meant to pave over something on the scale of the Manhattan Project.

So just imagine that Russia and/or China wanted to take the USA and knew that a very substantial percentage of the civilians are armed with semiautomatic rifles (according to one group, there are about 25 million ARs and AKs in the USA [4]). The enemy nation might want to use disposable human “assets” by torturing them remotely (at a distance) until they would be willing to kill dozens of innocent people (even children). Then there would be a powerful tug on the heartstrings of Americans with each devastating attack following on the heels of the last. This would lead to radical, unconstitutional gun control legislation and greatly weaken the civilian defenses built into our nation through the blessing of the Constitution. Knowing that China has at least 1 million Uyghurs in concentration camps (according to even the legacy media, that is) and Russia is in a conflict of some kind with the Ukraine, any reasonable person would have to admit this is possible: an enemy nation might see the relative armament of American civilians as being unconvincing, even in a natural and non-miraculous course of events, to a very easy land invasion and might seek to prevent loss of its own forces by advancing gun control in the target country.

However, I don't think this problem is originating from a foreign military but, rather, from a group of traitors within the intelligence community, whether or not those traitors are loyal to those foreign powers (and I actually do not think they are). Again, my enclosed tri-fold brochure (approximately a 10-minute read) gives a fast overview of some of the evidence most relevant to the risk of an attack on the grid by such a group. As stated earlier, I have been actively warning others for about 18 months since the time the evidence indicated that it was likely such an attack on the power grid would happen soon. Specifically, my tri-fold addresses that topic in the context of a cyberattack, but physical attacks would have roughly the same effect, most especially physical attacks with firearms, a strategy which would be designed to make a certain percentage of the country most erroneously think that gun owners are bad and all guns should be banned except for those in the hands of the government. Cyberattacks on the grid certainly aren't excluded from the realm of possibility just because physical attacks have recently happened, but for those who want all guns banned in America, the physical attacks with guns are an even more ingenious trick made by those who have been organizing the perpetrators, a trick which would be tailored to further advance their decades-long legacy media culture war against all religious people, conservatives, and people who like the Constitution (so...that means most of your officers would be included as intended victims of that legacy media culture war).

We can already see that “Y'all-Qaeda” is already the imaginary enemy we are being told to fear and being told is the likely or presumptive cause of the power grid attacks. Anyone who is sincerely religious and/or remotely resembles the Founding Fathers is targeted by this culture war. The dominant future/most likely future is that someone will come to you saying, “It was such-and-such right-wing group.” They expect you to blindly trust them and/or pass it off the FBI. It's really that simple.

Former CBS journalist Sharyl Attkisson exposed in her recent book Slanted: How the News Media Taught Us to Love Censorship and Hate Journalism—as many before her have also exposed—that the CIA took over the legacy media in the 1970s in Operation Mockingbird. Psychologist Fran Shure MA LPC was stunned at the level of censorship and applied her skills to researching this topic. She came up with an astonishing volume of material (one such article at following webpage is around 70 pages) fully supporting this history. [357]

Now if I suggested or asserted that the KGB controls or controlled the media in Russia, you wouldn't bat an eye. “Of course they do!” But in some there remains a psychological barrier preventing this kind of thinking as it relates to our own intelligence community controlling our legacy media.

To make it very clear just in case it is not clear already, there is a vicious circle in which the intelligence community is first causing the mass shootings and the power grid attacks and then driving the propaganda machine that urges Americans to support banning guns.

So to make a long story short, targeted individuals (TIs, the victims of this remote torture technology, which includes but is not limited to microwave weaponry) are almost certainly the ones acting in mass shootings and are likely being used for attacks on the power grid, as well. It should not be such a great surprise this is the case. After all, a person under such duress caused by remote torture technologies would have less regard for his own life and limb and freedom than other men and would be more likely to do something that could get him killed or locked up for the rest of his life or put on death row. Perhaps he has a psychiatric label because he says DARPA beams radio waves to his brain or “such-and-such president/prime minister of such-and-such country” beams radio waves to his brain and has been placed on disability “benefits.” With the mass shootings, we’re not talking about highly trained agents (with a lot of expensive training under their belts) but people they consider cheap, disposable, single-use assets. The TIs should not be considered solely responsible for the murders because even though free will is absolute, they have been pushed very, very hard by those doing remote torture operations from the shadows and treating them like human robots or puppets. (Note: For the power grid attacks in NC, it seems the perpetrators were more professional, but they didn’t expect to get caught as a mass shooter would expect to get caught.)

As Dr. Duncan's book explains, local law enforcement and the FBI have been used as the clean-up crew to dispose of such TIs after attacks. The intelligence community, he says, laughs at FBI and local law enforcement for not catching on to who is pulling the strings. This is especially ugly in light of the fact that a number of law enforcement agencies have decided they don't want officers above a certain IQ, saying that they fear boredom would become a problem if they hired smarter officers. Well, I think you people are much better than that and will easily see what's really going on. You certainly know there isn't an IQ cap on CIA agents and there isn't a technology cap on what kinds of exotic weapons they are allowed to use. And you also may be aware that intelligence doesn't have anything to do with being able to discern what is the truth and what is a lie.

Note: I don't discount the connection with psychiatric drugs (especially the SSRIs) that are very well known for causing suicide and homicide; the superlative Dr. Peter Breggin—the world's foremost anti-psychiatry psychiatrist—and the amazing CCHR have covered this well. I'm only saying the secondary cause of the mass shootings is not the primary cause. Dr. Breggin conditions his agreement to see new patients on their promise that they will work with him to completely withdraw from any and all psychiatric drugs (which can take as much as a year). He had some of his training at Harvard. He is the author of around 24 books including Talking Back to Ritalin and a manual called Psychiatric Drug Withdrawal. I've also noticed that Dr. Breggin does not hate America, hatred of America being a fashionable thing these days, almost to the point that those who don't hate America are considered seditious. This is the myth of Y'all-Qaeda: that those who want to protect their country are terrorists.

I would not prefer to see the current circumstances persist any longer with mass shootings and power grid attacks and a general lack of awareness of the orchestrators. All local law enforcement in our country needs to be aware of the technology and the nefarious goals it is now being used to advance. In my experience, targeted individuals are really not so rare. In my sphere of acquaintances, one person I know and the wife of another have been TIs. Thankfully, I'm not a TI myself despite exposing much government corruption in my book manuscript (a ninth draft). From my reading about the phenomenon, local law enforcement has been trained to send anyone to a psychiatrist if he or she claims that “DARPA is beaming voices” into his or her mind or anything similar to that. Obviously, any partnership of law enforcement with psychiatry is a tremendous error, as is shown beautifully by the previously mentioned resources, Dr. Breggin and CCHR. (Dr. Breggin, for instance, only prescribes psychiatric drugs for the purpose of weaning his patients off of them, no matter how disturbed they may be. He gets very good results. What does he actually do? He talks to his patients. That's a good start.)

But the microwave hearing effect, for instance, was known decades ago and is completely uncontested/uncontroversial. And Dr. Duncan's book Project: Soul Catcher, Vol. II | Secrets of Cyber and Cybernetic Warfare Revealed says there are plenty of other ways beyond the microwave hearing effect to induce merely the effect of hearing voices, not to mention the painful tortures and extremely effective sleep deprivation, etc. No longer is it necessary at all, as it may have been in the days of the CIA's now-admitted-to and now-apologized-for MK Ultra and its sister programs by related names, for anyone to use boots-on-the-ground abductions of nonconsenting subjects or to use sensory deprivation chambers; tape loops; electroshock tortures; or PCP, mescaline, amphetamines, and LSD as were used in MK Ultra. Is it not at all necessary for them to use their “tricks with liquids and solids” (e.g. spiking a water glass with drugs) to induce a synthetic form of insanity, G-d forbid, and do so with an almost airtight promise their crimes are untraceable.

The simple solution is probably the right one, Occam's Razor tells us. So given that the media is run by the CIA and is trumpeting daily the most un-American things imaginable (e.g. that the Constitution should be shredded), I think we should conclude the likely culprit, the highly organized group pulling the puppet strings of targeted individuals around our country to make them do mass shootings and, as I would make an educated guess, those attacking the grid, is not China or Russia (nations that also are known to have this technology). The likely culprit is our own Deep State. Anyone would have to be a fool to say there is no pattern in the mass shootings. Some might be inclined to take the MSM's lying narrative at face value and say that the problem is the little AR-15 (an American favorite and a smaller cousin of others that should be called anti-Holocaust rifles, not assault rifles) or that the problem is copycats who are said to be just one “lone nut” after another after another after another. Meanwhile, the blind spot of those who blindly trust the government grows wider and wider as they say, with each passing day, that Americans should be more and more powerless while the government gains more and more dictatorial powers and police state powers. Alternatively, the truth-oriented man could say, “You know, I think it actually is possible that there might be some ulterior motive here on the part of someone. Could it be at all possible that some person or group is organizing these so-called 'lone nut' shooters for a purpose we have not yet identified?”

According to Dr. Duncan's book (one which I acknowledge has a few typos in it, a fact which suggests to me that it was likely written with the help of a speech-to-text engine by a very smart person without a whole lot of time to spend on the book manuscript), the standard procedure with a TI is to induce a 'synthetic schizophrenia' in the target for the purposes of destroying credibility. That is, they go about perfectly mimicking the symptoms of schizophrenia and thereby discrediting the target. At that point, the TI would be considered broken and, G-d forbid, could be used for a variety of purposes.

“But, John,” you might say, “I could reasonably see this technology being used against a senator or someone in another government office to force their vote, but why would anyone use it on an ordinary person to make him shoot at power grid components or shoot a large number of people in a crowded location, as we've seen many times? This all sounds a bit farfetched.” The answer is that they don't only use this on high-profile targets like politicians or titans of industry and they have a way of letting machines do most of the work for them; that is, they don't need to have somebody sitting at a keyboard in a bunker somewhere manually directing all of the fine details of the torture techniques. According to Dr. Duncan's book, the majority of this has been automated now for years and they just need someone to more or less hit “Start” to run a program for sleep deprivation or a program for other things, G-d forbid.

And it is to be entirely expected that this would sound farfetched to someone only reading this letter if he chooses, because of inertia or fear of reprisal, not to exercise the courage to go beyond merely this letter and address the actual resources recommended here. For instance, anyone reading Dr. Duncan's book will understand that it is credible. Anyone who doesn't get started at all on the resources recommended here will be expected to think the author of this letter might be an overzealous fan of science fiction movies.

All law enforcement needs to be fully aware that because of the Operation Mockingbird takeover of the media in the 1970s, any national news story of any real importance has been so twisted as to be unrecognizable if it wasn't an outright lie. Please remember that we have, to one degree or another, a culture today in America—which is supposed to be a free country—where merely questioning the government is disparaged as “conspiracy theorizing” and where we are simultaneously given the incongruent statement that we have a free press not controlled by the government. We even live in a place where conspiracy theorists (good, G-d fearing, Constitution-liking Americans like myself) have been slandered as “Holocaust deniers.”

Please remember that not all the Germans opposed the rise of the Nazi party. Maybe it would not have been out of place in history had the Nazi-supporting Germans scoffed at those who didn't support the party and disparaged them as “conspiracy theorists” (with German terminology). Please remember that those who scoff at conspiracy theories are, with their actions though not with their words, denying the Holocaust, as if to say “That could never happen here.” Please remember the many civilizations throughout history that became decadent and turned their backs on living in the ways of the Creator and remember that those civilizations fell.

Look, there are both good and bad people in the CIA and the FBI and DHS, etc. To a great extent, I think the bad has really been outpacing the good lately in some of the higher levels. When you've seen mass shootings and power grid attacks, it's safe to say you've been watching “strategic domestic deception,” as Dr. Duncan calls it; and it's safe to say the mythical “Y'all-Qaeda” are those intended to be villainized.

Whether you want to believe it's merely that China is making people shoot dozens of innocent people and attack power grid components or are willing to look into those groups I believe to be the much likelier culprits (bad actors in the intelligence community), it should be obvious that passing on the investigation to the FBI would be a huge mistake. “This is over my head,” some might be inclined to say, “so I'll pass it up to the FBI.” “We don't investigate this sort of thing; we look at local crimes.”

Unfortunately, the FBI has been one of the biggest promulgators of the harmful myth of “Y'all-Qaeda”: the myth that normal Americans—and, frequently, rural Americans—are terrorists, especially since they (we) believe in G-d and we like American flags, pickup trucks, firearms, and barbecue. That sure sounds like a lot of police officers...

My tri-fold brochure makes very clear that there are good reasons—reasons related very much to the vulnerability of the power grid—to think the USA is very near to a civil war. That civil war would be almost certainly between would-be Nazi camp guards acting under the orders of FEMA and millions of ordinary Americans forced to defend themselves, their families, and all their neighbors by shooting their neighbors' sons in uniform, G-d forbid that it ever come to that ugliness.

“It's for your safety, of course. Also, it's for safekeeping from looters. You'll get the guns back when you return from the other side of the fence.” “But, Officer, if you said the fence is to keep people out, then why is the razor wire facing inward?” “Uh...just hurry up and get in the rescue camps. I'm just following orders. That should make you feel much more confident to know that. You see, we don't want any mass shootings in the camps.” “But what about some of the biggest mass shootings in history like from the events of the Holocaust and the Soviet Union? Those shootings were in camps.” “Uh...”

I'm not slandering the police, Guardsmen, or active-duty military because many such officers are acutely aware of existing government overreach and on the lookout for more. Many care about their oath to defend the Constitution from enemies foreign and domestic. Most importantly, a high percentage do believe in G-d. So the preceding imaginary dialogue is merely what I think of as the intended goal of globalists in their strategy for dividing and conquering this rich land (or substitute “hostile foreign nations” for “globalists” if any don't believe “globalists” are the primary threat). When it comes to turning American military and police against Americans (and federalizing all police for purposes of centralized control in the wake of local “defund the police” activism), this appears to be the basic strategy: create a plausible emergency excuse, then permanently remove rights.

Your agency and every local law enforcement agency in the country should know that gun confiscation has already happened in America: mass gun confiscation happened in New Orleans during Hurricane Katrina way back in 2005, now nearing 20 years ago. I think JPFO and GOA are good gun rights groups nationally. But the likely compromised (so I've heard) NRA did cover the gun confiscation raids of Hurricane Katrina very well, including the lady living by herself who was tackled and injured at home by an officer when they came to take her guns. Maybe the looters felt very protected by the police actions in New Orleans. Apparently, officers from more liberal parts of the USA were brought in to “help.” That's what federalization of the police would look like, G-d forbid, but only on a larger scale; and one of the main points of this letter is to tell you that nationwide gun confiscation is entirely the point of the power grid attacks. Gun confiscation is both the impetus of the attacks and the desired result of the propaganda machine's response to the attacks.

Those who are proponents of gun control have been finding families of victims of shootings and getting them to start lawsuits against gun manufacturers. I would suggest that whoever has been telling the victims' families to do that has been influenced or directed by predators to do so because this amounts to preying on the family members of the victims for the advancement of a genocidal national policy. No families of victims should fall for that trick. They should be strengthened by G-d to stand up and say that what happened to their family was bad, yes, but the results of gun control could be many thousands of times worse. They should be strengthened by G-d to say that gun-free zones are a proximate physical cause of most mass shootings. And we know that without repentance that kind of interview would not air on the government-approved media.

If a university professor wanted to do a social engineering experiment on his students while they were in his ordinary lectures, he probably wouldn't reveal this to the students but would just do it without telling them. Telling them would throw off the effect or the results in some way. Why would anyone think government propaganda on the part of skilled social engineers at a population level would be any different? They wouldn't reveal that they are lying. In the Milgram experiment, it wasn't revealed to the subjects that the electric shocks were being faked by actors in the other room, but some of them were willing to give their fellow man a dose of electricity they were told was lethal; despite the screaming of the ostensible victims who were actually actors, the secret was that the real test subjects—the people actually being studied—were the ones with their fingers on the buttons. Many of them failed the test of character on that day and gave what they were told was a lethal shock merely because an authority figure told them to do it. Imagine their embarrassment when the curtain, so to speak, was raised. You folks shouldn't be embarrassed in a similar way when G-d raises the curtain in these challenging times we're living in. Reading the Book of Esther just goes to show how G-d can appear to be hidden until the end of the story when His master plan is revealed and, with perfect symmetry, those who plotted might even ultimately be hanged by their own nooses.

Every local police department; state police department; state National Guard, of which Oklahoma recently proved itself possibly the bravest of the 50; and all subdivisions within each of these should sign Second Amendment Sanctuary ordinances, militia ordinances, and “We Want You Civilians to Shoot Us If...” ordinances so that the men in uniform nationwide pick up where Ohio left off. That is to say Ohio recently proposed [\[360\]](#) a law banning gun confiscation in emergencies and it seems sure to pass. (Obviously, the Second Amendment itself is very clear but it seems that some people are so keen on attacking it that we need to be more explicit.) Note: Most militia groups are made of former law enforcement officers and veterans, primarily. Militia groups, as you may know, are legal, despite the best efforts of some very organized domestic enemies of the Constitution who want to ban guns.

Since you're already familiar with Ohio's proposal and with 2A Sanctuary ordinances and militia ordinances, I'll say it this way. These are good ways of nullifying bad state laws or bad federal laws, but we need to take it a step further, all the way to the ugly but logical conclusion. Every local police department, state police department, state National Guard, and every small group within active-duty military should publish a new kind of resolution stating that they fully endorse and encourage and hold harmless any American civilians opposing with lethal force any American troops; or and American police; or any UN troops/so-called “peacekeeping force” or similar; or any troops or police from foreign nations if those troops or police try to force American civilians into camps in any disaster or nondisaster and/or do gun confiscations raids on the population level.

As it turns out, this idea has some precedent. When Haman, advisor to the Persian king Achashverosh, tried to wipe out the Jews, it was at a time when a decree of the king could not be rescinded. It was decreed in all 127 provinces that the enemies of the Jews were ordered to kill all of the Jews. Persia was the world's superpower at the time. So when King Achashverosh came under the influence of a G-dly person named Mordechai and Mordechai's niece Esther, he issued a new order stating that the Jews could defend themselves against their enemies and kill their enemies. Of course, what I'm referring to is the amazing history of the Book of Esther from the Jewish Bible.

Further, there is already within our nation a concept of division of powers among the executive, legislative, and judicial branches. True, the sins of this nation opened the door for some clever plotters who found a way to circumvent this system of “checks and balances” as it is called. The Founding Fathers, of course, never thought they would have to write down such things as are enumerated in the Bill of Rights. That is why those amendments to the Constitution are afterthoughts. They had lived in a time when people believed in G-d. People who believe in G-d believe in freedom and personal responsibility and free will and making good choices with the help of the Creator. As we see today, people who don't believe in G-d believe in collectivism and in the government forcing everyone to do certain things because they think people are too stupid to make decisions.

So I would suggest we need at this time an amendment to the Constitution that clarifies the Second Amendment as it was originally intended and provides for expressly legal defense by the Civil power against the Police and/or Military powers if necessary. Just as we have Executive, Legislative and Judicial branches, we must have another kind of division: Civil, Police, and Military branches to prevent genocide by the latter two. Without trying to write that all out here, I'd just say that the only semi-controversial purposes of the Second Amendment in our time would be defense against rogue American government putting Americans into concentration camps and defense against UN "peacekeeping force" soldiers/armies that some might plan to call over here in the wake of a disaster...a disaster like a devastating grid-down scenario. The use of our Second Amendment rights in basic self-defense, such as to defend against home invasion by common thugs, is not controversial in theory or in principle but has been very much under attack in the legal system, as we all know. And the use of our Second Amendment rights to defend against invading foreign armies is not at all controversial in theory, either. And, yes, to even the odds, I do think it would be good for civilians to have the same weapons as law enforcement and the military.

Such an amendment to the Constitution with Civil, Police, and Military branches divided and Civil branch defense explicitly legal, would be a potentially lifesaving change. But as you may be able to guess, I'll say that we shouldn't hold our breath and hope that the Congress will do it. Even if someone spent a little time and wrote it out and had it worked on by the best attorneys in that specific area of U.S. constitutional law, I would still encourage local law enforcement and state National Guard and active-duty battalions/divisions everywhere to pass and publish their own resolutions in a decentralized fashion because that decentralized approach will provide a safeguard—a better one—against such a civil war. Officers are civilians, too, and those who are active duty have probably heard a saying similar to "Don't poop in your lunch box," meaning don't create a problem for yourself. The ugliness of a firefight between civilians and their neighbors' sons in uniform cannot be understated.

Legalizing in the most explicit way the defense by armed civilians against such a round-up or raid would go a long way towards preventing anyone from even trying because it would make it concrete for everyone to know that this certainly is another form of checks and balances our country has. It is a good idea in the same way that national sovereignty, defined as the ability to wage war if necessary, is a good idea. Each side would have the knowledge that there are circumstances under which the other side can kill if, G-d forbid, that becomes necessary. Officers could sleep better at night and so could civilians. Officers would know that when they retire they are not becoming a class of people that can be rounded up wholesale for any reason and taken to camps. The friendliness of the religious right with law enforcement would be greater than it is today. Local resolutions of this kind could definitely achieve the same goal as an amendment to the federal Constitution.

While it's true that the Declaration of Independence does clearly say there is a duty for Americans to rise up in offensive revolution if a dictatorship so egregious as that from the days of the American Revolution ever emerges (and, yes, we have a worse dictatorship now), and it is easy to say how much more so this would be implied in the Second Amendment for defensive resistance to prevent neighborhoods, towns, and states from going to concentration camps, the reader should note, however, that my book actually doesn't recommend offensive revolution as a means of ending the dictatorship we are now living under in the USA. After all, offensive revolution would likely be most imprecise and would almost certainly involve extrajudicial killings, which would be murders, a very great sin before G-d. Sins only push the nation closer to oppression by its own government. Redemption is the only permanent way out. Revolution, after all, just means going in circles, as in "the Earth revolves around the Sun." The permanent end to dictatorships worldwide is when mankind lives G-d's way and the current job of the dictators (keeping us in line) becomes obsolete. They're in power because the Creator put them there, but they'll be out of a job when mankind follows G-d's Instruction Manual for Life. The Final Redemption will have some similarities with the Exodus from Egypt. If people are at all overwhelmed at the prospect of living G-d's way, I would recommend learning the Seven Noahide Laws and would recommend in our time a special focus on learning to guard the tongue from reliable Orthodox rabbis. If someone scrupulously guards the tongue, he will come to fulfill all of his obligations to his fellow man. If he is careful not to cause harm with the spoken word, how much more so he will be careful not to cause harm in other ways. Chofetz Chaim | A Lesson A Day is a terrific book on this and my upcoming music video is mainly about guarding the tongue. :)

As for precedent in terms of how righteous people should conduct themselves in the face of tyrants, one of the rebbes of the Chabad movement within Orthodox Judaism did not resist when he was arrested individually by communists. But it is safe to say that is a different scenario than entire neighborhoods, towns, counties, states, or nations being rounded up by their own governments. So the Klausenberger Rebbe, near the end of WWII, ruled that groups of Jews should only resist with force if they are sure they are being taken to death camps rather than work camps even if that would mean that half of the people would die in the resistance. The benefit would be greater than the risk. This just goes to show the very great care the Orthodox Jews take in making Torah-law rulings. I would humbly suggest we might be dealing with a different circumstances today as we are now living in a time when most of the world's civilian population is completely disarmed and in a time when most of the governments of the world marched in lockstep with each other to implement lockdowns and very nearly end the Bill of Rights here (and similar values that may be held in European and/or Anglo-American countries) with great alacrity. This was not the case in WWII. With America being approximately the last domino still standing, the risk of genocide might simply be too great in this case and I am looking for answers to that important question. Regardless of the answer to that question—the answer to “What exactly would a righteous militia group do, and under which circumstances would they act?”—it is no secret that there are millions of Americans today who have made up their minds that they will kill any forces that come to disarm whole towns, neighborhoods, etc., or to put them in camps.

At the current pace, gun control is set to consume most of the USA within years, but with the type of disaster outlined in my tri-fold brochure, that could be within weeks or months, with “rescue” camps being the plausibly deniable excuse. The threat to American lives posed by an attack at large scale on the grid is so great and so likely that I have changed gears somewhat in my upcoming music video album, which was originally intended to get people interested in my book (Jews: Go Long! | A Report on the Practicality and Desirability of the Final Redemption, also known as How to Prevent the Next Holocaust and Why It's Already Happening Right Here in America, also known as Encyclopedia Conspiraca). The music video album now is intended to first get people to read the tri-fold brochure so they can be better prepared in case the power is out for months or years.

Most importantly, the tranquility of the soul that can only come from completely trusting in G-d is, without question, the only 'secret' ingredient that can help you consistently make good decisions (and, in this case, do truthful investigations such as the one you'll need to do regarding the recent coordinated attacks on the power grid—remember, there were 106 in the first eight months of 2022). Only those local law enforcement officers who trust the Creator are likely to be willing to chose not to defer to the FBI and merely pass it along for someone else do, the FBI being a place where the matter would likely reach the hands of someone involved in some very un-American activities who would seek to further the myth of “Y'all-Qaeda” at all costs and then say “case closed.”

For those thinking this letter resonates as being full of truth but wondering about possible difficulties in verification of facts, I'd recommend the following action steps after grounding yourself in trust in G-d:

1. Introduction to the topic at hand. Start with the tri-fold (~10 minutes to read). Some groups likely to be working closely with the perpetrators are identified there.
2. Verify what the stakes really are. Read the JPFO Genocide Chart to remind you of what you already know since you're LEOs: gun control could be very, very bad for Americans' health.
3. Check the references. Verify the references in the tri-fold (this is extremely fast and easy to do and might take about 30 minutes for a basic verification of validity of references—I assembled them myself).
4. Learn about the technology that makes nuclear weapons seem almost obsolete. Make use of the work of Nick Begich and Dr. Robert Duncan so that you know targeted individuals (TIs) are commonplace and the technology is decades ahead of that exposed by the government-approved news stories about Havana Syndrome/the Cuban diplomats/the microwave attacks on the grounds of the White House. Dr. Duncan's book Project: Soul Catcher, Volume 2 is a good start and I own it and have read it through; Controlling the Human Mind: The Technologies of Political Control or Tools for Peak Performance by Nick Begich is the book I would buy next (and I remember there are free papers [\[5\]](#) he has written).
5. Jurisdiction. Ask yourselves this question: If the intelligence community is the proximate cause of the problem, are they likely to investigate themselves and point the finger at themselves?
6. Anticipate fakers. Be ready for someone approaching you and telling you it's the fault of the terrifying, mythical “Y'all-Qaeda.”
7. Throughout, stay grounded in trust in G-d. A real investigation here will necessarily involve a certain amount of stress, whether you determine it's China or Russia trying to get gun control legislation rammed through or the CIA. Rabbi Yitzchok Dovid Smith's work will help immensely. Not only is he at the forefront of the health freedom movement (I've heard North Carolina might be “vaccine central,” so you do need to hear about the health freedom movement over there), but he also makes great and repeated emphasis in his work on the all-important concept of tranquility of the soul. We would all do well to learn more from R' Smith.

I truly believe and do not doubt that my upcoming and joyful music video album will show everyone that, with the help of G-d, even someone who wrote a book about how to prevent the next Holocaust and is knowledgeable about this threat can be a very joyful person. Where else can you see a Western about our family dog scooting on the carpet with, surprisingly, a really good lesson built in about the amazing Orthodox Jewish practice of guarding the tongue from gossip? (Note: Gossip, by definition, is 100% true.) But the public request for tips was simply too relevant to my efforts over the last ~18 months handing out this tri-fold and I did not want to wait or pass it up. If some lives can be saved right now, that's the priority. That's why I pushed the music video and many other things aside for this letter. It's one thing if people are able to drive to the next town where the lights are on. But if the USA loses the whole grid more or less at once, so much death could result. Again, if you or somebody you know doesn't believe the intelligence community would do it, would a hostile enemy nation do it before or after war? Most probably, they would do it before a war as a force multiplier, a means of cutting their own losses by weakening the target nation.

Some might even say “the FBI already has the case.” One need look no further than this article [\[17\]](#), one of the references from my book, which shows the FBI found the work of Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth to be substantial a number of years ago (but, obviously, no real FBI investigation ever resulted despite that finding about great work shedding new light on the crime of the century). This means that some within high leadership positions in the FBI killed the real investigation into the most devastating terrorist attack in American history, proving “The Bureau” is a dishonest agency at best.

Note: All of Chapter 2 of my book is an extended plea to the reader to only spend 2 hours, once and for all, so he or she is guaranteed that he or she never has to wonder again (after spending just 2 hours) why 110-story WTC 1 & 2 and the 47-story WTC 7 collapsed at free-fall acceleration into their own footprints like houses of cards on that day. The answer is that all three were destroyed through controlled demolition with charges placed expertly by a team of professionals. So that is my promise: no more uncertainty in conversations with friends who bring it up, period. AE911Truth generously made their ~2-hour DVD Blueprint For Truth available for free on the YouTube.

AE911Truth's technical professional petition-signers now total over 3,500 (architects, engineers, explosive demolition experts, etc.). Other related organizations include, but are not limited to:

- Firefighters for 9/11 Truth
- Lawyers for 9/11 Truth
- Medical Professionals for 9/11 Truth
- Pilots for 9/11 Truth
- Political Leaders for 9/11 Truth
- Religious Leaders for 9/11 Truth
- Scholars for 9/11 Truth and Justice
- Veterans for 9/11 Truth
- US Military Officers for 9/11 Truth
- We Are Change

AE911Truth also has a study at University of Alaska Fairbanks [24] to support its work and has the support of some of the victims' families and of the Franklin Square and Munson Fire Department in NYC. And, yes, I'm aware of the Popular Mechanics and National Geographic efforts at debunking Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth. I compared the two sides and found the evidence presented by AE911Truth to be so much weightier than the debunking efforts that there was no question AE911Truth won, hands down. AE911Truth responded generously to the debunking efforts years ago, of course.

I didn't believe in G-d before I learned about all of this government corruption so I was a fearful person for a while. I don't recommend going that route because it's not truthful (G-d really controls every fine detail of the whole world) and that route also doesn't even work/is not effective. A New Age person might learn about the government corruption and say in his heart, “Well, I must be on my own with this one.” But the man of G-d knows he's not alone or without help.

You could probably guess that I would also want you all to know that it is the simple fact that America has turned its back on living in the ways of the Creator which is the primary cause of all the government oppression we are facing. It is entirely appropriate to see the recent attacks on the grid as a clever effort designed to end what appears to be the last remaining right from the now-shredded Bill of Rights: the Second Amendment. Yes, after the three (not two) massive WTC towers were skillfully imploded on 9/11, we lost the Fourth Amendment most especially (almost completely lost it, that is). After the social engineers acclimated Americans to that for almost 20 years, the remaining freedoms—religion, assembly, speech, and even one I think nobody ever thought needed to be spelled out: the freedom to go to work—were mostly ended in the lockdowns in which the real neo-Nazis (the rogue government) said people were non-essential workers.

Militia groups are “the teeth of liberty” and that's exactly why the social engineers behind “the news” want to end the Second Amendment. Sometimes there really are organized human predators (as opposed to one so-called “lone nut” after another) and that's what we are facing. But do not be afraid because freedom, though it comes with responsibility, is much sweeter than shackles and a guaranteed scrap of communist bread loaded with Roundup (or mass graves and bulldozers as in the Third Reich). The moment our America takes responsibility before G-d for all her actions is the moment she has righteous government. This is the only way out. It is the non-macho, counterintuitive solution for the Chinese finger-trap against which we have been stubbornly pulling. It's called repentance. I'm sure you agree the germ theory of disease transmission has been greatly overblown, to put it very mildly, but the sin theory of dictatorship is the right one.

I would suggest that passing this investigation on to the FBI would be a violation of your oath because you now have good reason (if you didn't before now) to believe the FBI has enough people in its leadership that oppose the Constitution. They are domestic enemies of the Constitution, people you have sworn to defend our country from, and they are, of course, skilled in the art of Turnspeak, blaming the victim for the crimes of the perpetrator (blaming us for their own crimes).

Dr. Barrie Trower (of the UK) would be one of the best possible experts/expert witnesses on this topic. He is a former microwave weapons expert for the British Royal Navy, so from his previous training he has in-depth knowledge about the Cold War technology in that department. He also is aware of the modern phenomenon of targeted individuals (TIs) and I certainly don't think he would say, “No, the technology has not progressed at all since the Cold War” (which, of course, is the intended impression given by the mainstream news stories about microwave weapons and all the more so by Wikipedia, another government media site). His contact info is available if you want to place a call or write a letter. [6] He has certainly spoken to a lot of governments around the world.

To say our government would never, ever use Americans as subjects for a mind control/sleeper assassin/“Manchurian” program involving advanced, modern microwave weaponry and related technologies that don't necessarily use the microwave region of the electromagnetic spectrum is to pretend the CIA's MK Ultra and its many sister programs (frequently with similar names)—now admitted to the public openly and apologized for—would not have any continuation and that nobody in the intelligence community would want to achieve mind control goals in a manner that conveniently involves no abductions, no “tricks with liquids and solids,” and no boots on the ground. That stance would also assume absolutely nobody in the intelligence community has, since the days of MK Ultra and the panoply of related programs, said and acted on the idea “If we don't do it, they [enemy nations] will.”

The fact that the areas where mass shootings have occurred have typically been sitting-duck disarmament zones (like schools) is an extremely important secondary physical cause of the mass shootings. We should be disgusted that disarmament zones are currently allowed in many parts of the USA. It's as if someone wants to think we're dumb enough to believe a mass shooter would see a sign on a post near a crowded building and say, "Well, that's too bad. I was going to shoot up this place today but it says No Guns Allowed." The law-abiding people might not carry there, though, and that makes the zone just one big sitting duck. So that's an important secondary physical cause. And the phenomenon of TIs is only the primary physical cause, not the ultimate cause: a nation which, in G-d's eyes, must surely be deserving of government oppression. Our country simply does not need to slide so far into sin as to look like China (with at least 1 million in concentration camps today) for us to understand the wake-up call. Let's learn our lessons now instead of increasing our own suffering with poorly aimed stubbornness.

Even though the recent Indiana mall shooting was stopped in seconds by a constitutional carrier (and many states have been moving to constitutional carry, meaning no permit for concealed carry, with close to half the states now doing this), the legacy media, counterfactual as usual, didn't approve. [7]

My book is partly about crimes of the intelligence community. Even if there were no threat to the power grid, Americans would still have ample reason to have concern (I didn't say fear, but concern) about the US government coming to put Americans in concentration camps. Australia [42] and New Zealand [43] have been using forcible relocation to quarantine motels. The UK airport implemented a forcible quarantine center. Canada introduced [41] a law allowing forced quarantine during the days of the lockdowns. The CDC made a proposal right on its official website [44] for quarantine "camps" in the USA. Canada introduced a law [45] allowing grocery stores to ban unvaccinated people in one of its provinces. Canada had one mass shooting during the lockdowns and moved to ban what I call anti-Holocaust rifles [46]. The UK, nearly totally disarmed but suffering from lots of stabbings, introduced [210] a proposal to GPS-track and register kitchen knives, while the Catholic Church over there recommended the UK should make all kitchen knives with a blunt end to prevent stabbings. [47] It seems that merely living in the UK or one of its former or current colonies (America is a former colony, by the way) really causes a person to be at risk of being disarmed and going to camps.

"No smith to be found"—A repeat of I Samuel 13:

<sup>19</sup>Now, not a smith was to be found in all the land of Israel, for the Philistines said, "Lest the Hebrews make sword or spear." <sup>20</sup>And all Israel went down to the (land of) the Philistines to sharpen each man his plowshare and his colter and his axe and his mattock. <sup>21</sup>And there was a file for the mattocks and for the colters and for the three-pronged pitchforks and for the axes, and to set the goad. <sup>22</sup>And it was on the day of war, that neither sword nor spear was found in the possession of all the people who were with Saul and with Jonathan, but Saul and Jonathan his son had them. [8]

The proposal to GPS track knives in the UK would appear to be a possible next step in total tyranny after gun confiscation, i.e. "...Lest the ~~Hebrews~~ British produce a[n] [unregistered] ~~sword or spear~~ kitchen knife."

Even the mere title of Sharyl Attkisson's book Slanted: How the News Media Taught Us to Love Censorship and Hate Journalism shows with astonishing clarity that our country absolutely is taking on the defining characteristics of Nazi Germany in full force (and my upcoming handout "Who are the Nazis today?” will show a list of many of these defining characteristics).

In explaining the new National Press Law to the government-licensed journalists in Germany, Hitler's propaganda minister explained:

“I don't see why you should have the slightest difficulty in adjusting the trend of what you write to the interests of the State. It is possible that the Government may sometimes be mistaken—as to individual measures—but it is absurd to suggest that anything superior to the Government might take its place. What is the use therefore of editorial skepticism? It only makes people uneasy.” [48]

This comment in the fall of 1933 was made to a U.S. newspaper by the dean of the College of Engineering, University of Washington after he visited Germany:

“The people of Germany today are afraid to express opinions even on trivial matters...” [49]

There is certainly no doubt that the same kind of effect has been observed here in the USA as censorship has been promoted more and more. Nearly all legitimate criticism of government is being called “conspiracy theorizing,” of course.

There is a simple fact which the US government and its media have studiously avoided since 9/11: the goal of terrorism is actually to create a change in the target society, a change that destroys its way of life. Obviously, this means the Patriot Act was a complete and unqualified success for the terrorists; a success for America in withstanding the tests of 9/11 would have been to stick with the Constitution rather than using it for toilet paper at the first sign of danger and distress.

Psychiatry has not only ravaged civilians in the USA. In fact, the troops have been the first set of guinea pigs on which their supposed treatments have been tested. Yes, the US military has been a free-for-all when it comes to testing all manner of pharmaceuticals and microwave communications technologies for many decades. After working tirelessly to disconnect the troops from G-d, after forcing them to live with the men and women mixed together so as to set them up for disastrous consequences of promiscuity and reduce battle readiness, after giving them every imaginable pharmaceutical product through “take this or you're fired” strong-arm tactics, after giving food prepared nicely by chefs but from horrendous ingredients, after giving a high percentage of questionable missions that would strain any mind almost to the breaking point, and after giving any individuals that had problems from all of the above the fatalistic lie “You're X percent disabled and can never, ever get better,” is it any wonder so many veterans are on psychiatric drugs? The goal, it seems, is to have all veterans declared “mentally ill” by a “professional” and have them disarmed with “red flag” laws, a very dangerous prospect indeed.

The intentional mixing of men and women in the armed forces is a factor which, on its own, would greatly reduce battle readiness. And in our time we have all of these factors combined and expect technology to make up for it all. Despite many drills, these facts make America weaker in the face of possible attack by foreign nations. And a civil war has never been a more dangerous prospect in the USA. At least in the 1860s nobody had been tricked into thinking the safest thing would be to give all the guns to the government, one that has thoroughly proven itself to be involved in a most urgent race to strip away every last freedom we were born with here. That, my friends, is what the mass shootings and power plant attacks are really about. Those who succeed against this plotting will be the ones who can say to their children and grandchildren and great-grandchildren, “Yes, we could have chosen to be afraid of all of this ugliness that was rearing its head in our country. But instead, we trusted that G-d would save us as we proved our repentance was sincere by changing our actions. We gained His favor and help and that caused the dictatorship to evaporate. I'm glad I was on the right side of history.”

Fascinatingly, there was suspicion that Jews in Germany were a Fifth Column (a faction living within the country but loyal to, and working to support, its enemies). In reality, the Jews in Germany were the most patriotic German citizens of all. Today in America, the best Americans—the religious right—are being slandered as “terrorists” and/or “extremists,” as if the most patriotic of all could believably be painted as disloyal to the nation. You in law enforcement are being asked and pressured to forget one of the oldest tricks in the book, one with a history of at least hundreds of years of use: agent provocateur. An example of an agent provocateur would be someone showing up to a rally pretending to be among a certain group at the rally while doing very strange or offensive or even violent things to discredit that same group he says he's part of. The agent provocateur is actually an enemy of the group he pretends to be in, but he puts on the clothing of that group to discredit them. Obviously, targeted individuals who have been tortured to such a degree as to be willing to carry out a mass shooting or an attack on the power grid are a variation on the more general concept of agent provocateur. Since they are usually amateurs/have no training, maybe “asset provocateur” would be a reasonable term, but there is no need to complicate things since TI is the favored term now and it does its job of explaining. And I believe I read that the NC grid attacks were done by people who knew what they were doing, so that seems to be the exception as a lot of amateur attacks have happened elsewhere. If half of the grid attacks have been done by professionals, you have a very good explanation for the other half. But it would make sense the mass shootings would be done almost exclusively by TIs because they're expected to get caught. A well-trained agent, a professional, would be more of a financial investment and wouldn't be expected to have the same level of disposability in the eyes of those who have been pulling the strings.

All of our souls should be stricken with the realization of the sorry, low state of our country by recognizing what is most likely the foremost psychological barrier standing in the way of investigating the real primary, proximate cause of the mass shootings and grid attacks: fear of being labeled as crazy/fear of getting fired. Only in a dictatorship masquerading as a free country (or in one not pretending at all to be free) would it be possible for psychiatry and secular psychology to have so much power that a pronouncement or even a hint of a diagnosis would be expected to forever stain the life of the one being labeled, such that his family, friends, and coworkers would be distanced from him for a lifetime and consider him non-credible in all things until his death, the real effect of which is to consider him less than human. 'Humans can bring arguments and present facts, but subhumans are not to be heard and neither are diagnoses by such esteemed, credentialed professionals to be questioned.' So goes that philosophy. It is no wonder that people are afraid to lose their jobs or get labeled.

Meanwhile, the average psychiatrist or psychologist doesn't even believe in G-d and thinks or says all religious people are crazy; he hates America; he pushes for increased power of the government and, more or less, believes the government should own the children; he believes in “the cult of scarcity” and “the cult of experts” rather than “the G-d of Abundance” (here I'm borrowing Rabbi Smith terminology again); and he believes, contrary to the evidence, that people with “mental illness” can't get better—all false beliefs. (Obviously, psychiatry had a huge role to play in the Third Reich and in the Soviet Union; see the work of CCHR, which even has documentaries and museums on the evils of modern psychiatry.)

Note: Forced testimony and other courtroom interference are other possible/very likely applications of the technology I'm warning you about here in this letter.

Note: The Nazis wanted to take the whole world. The UN is doing the same while masquerading as being humanitarian.

As important as it is for people to read my free book, I'll restate that I changed the focus of my upcoming music video project (originally intended to get people to read the book) to get people to first read my tri-fold brochure and then the book because the tri-fold shows how we can be prepared for a much greater and more immediate danger, one which could not possibly be more relevant to the main subject of this letter. The tri-fold itself, a free educational service of Insulting Consulting, should be considered to be a tip in and of itself. Nobody should say, "This could be too hard to follow up on" or "I'll let the FBI handle it" or "the FBI is already handling it." With repetition, that's very clear by now.

The Seventh Lubavitcher Rebbe, one of the great leaders within Orthodox Judaism, stated that Viktor Frankl's view of psychiatry was the only valid one. That was a very positive way of saying that psychiatry was an invalid profession. Dr. Frankl was the one who wrote Man's Search for Meaning, by the way. Again, I would remind you that Dr. Peter Breggin and CCHR are also good resources today about the dangers of the ostensible "treatments" of psychiatry, not to mention its abuses.

"Terrorist" is what they say when they want to take away someone's rights. "Crazy" is what they say when they want to rip out his tongue.

|"When you tear out a man's tongue, you are not proving him a liar, you're only telling the world that you fear what he might say."
— George R.R. Martin

So I don't doubt some might be inclined to say "lock him up" because of this letter. But I am, after all, just saying what everyone is thinking, especially what LEOs are thinking and what concerned citizens are thinking.

If you agree with the statements made here but ignore the stuff about G-d, it's a guarantee that you'll only ever be a reactionary at best. According to Rabbi Yitzchok Dovid Smith (when he explained this in a different context), the communists who refer to anti-communists as "reactionaries" actually have a tiny grain of truth in using that label. If someone is connected to and is living G-d's vision of what the world should really be like, he has the power to actively make history. If not, he will clearly be passively subject to the plans of the wicked, whether he is going along with those plans or opposing them, because he doesn't really stand for anything positive and only opposes evil.

Today is the Jewish holiday of Purim. It is this time of year that observant (Orthodox) Jews read the Book of Esther and celebrate the great salvation of their people from the hands of the first attempted genocide against all Jews in the 127 provinces of Persia. But the Book of Esther is also very relevant to non-Jews such as myself. I would recommend that if you liked this letter you should read the Book of Esther from a Jewish Bible. There is a free one here. [\[50\]](#) It is good to know that in the times when it seems like G-d is hiding, He actually is. At the same time, He's orchestrating every fine detail of every event in our world and is waiting expectantly for all of us to simply do things His way. Nowhere in the Book of Esther is G-d mentioned once explicitly, but by the end it is abundantly clear to the reader that He was the mastermind behind all of the events leading up to the victory of the Jews and the downfall of their would-be murderers. With perfect symmetry, the punishment and death intended for the Jews was enacted on their lethal pursuers. And we should always hold out hope in our day that even the most evil people will turn to G-d and end their genocidal campaign rather than becoming deserving in G-d's eyes of being caught in the nets they themselves wove.

Thank you for reading. Let me know if I can answer any questions along the way. May G-d guide you in your investigation.

By the way, folks, if you already believe in G-d then chances are you're Christians. So I would recommend you use Rabbi Tovia Singer's two-volume book Let's Get Biblical to help you study through your Christian Bibles, whether alone, with family, or with any honest pastors, and prove to yourself that only the most blatant Bible-tampering ever gave rise to Christianity in the first place. I only had to study through to the end of Volume 1 to become a Noahide, a non-Jew that learns from the Orthodox rabbis instead of pastors and reads the Jewish Bible instead of the Christian Bible. There is also the handout "FAQs from Christians" at my website in case you think I'm stupid or that I didn't realize the vaccine passport concept is the Mark of the Beast system.

Thank you so much for reading. Please make good use of the information.

I wish you a very happy Purim!

PS The Jews do not fulfill their obligation of reading the Book of Esther if they "read it backwards," meaning seeing it as a mere historical document. It's happening today, just with different details!
